- You may notice a slight odour when your first unpack your Komfi mattress. This is perfectly normal, and will soon dissipate.
- If your previous mattress was the old-fashioned sprung variety, the body-moulding comfort of your new Komfi mattress may take a day or two to get used to. This is perfectly normal. You'll find your body quickly comes to find your Komfi mattress incredibly supportive.
- It is no longer necessary to undertake the tiresome task of turning your mattress. However, for optimal use, we recommend rotating your mattress end-to-end on a monthly basis. Slight dips and indents corresponding to your body is perfectly normal – it shows your mattress is doing its job.
- Do not use an electric blanket with your Komfi mattress.
- The cover of your mattress is simple to remove, and is designed to be cleaned in a normal, domestic washing machine. However, the inner, protective sock covering the mattress should NEVER be removed.
